AGED DISPUTANTS.

Octogenarians in Court to Settle Their Differences.

Ralph Thomas and Perry Brown, aged colored men, who have passed the three score years and ten limit, were in the Police Court today to have Judge Scott settle their troubles. Each man was anxious to tell his story first, but Prosecuting Attorney Mulvaney objected on the ground that the imaginary troubles of the old men would make too long a narrative.

It was explained to the judge that the men lived together at 1711 20th street, and last night, when Brown returned home and sat down to eat some food that had been given to him, Thomas directed him to leave the house. The men did not agree as to what followed. Brown says Thomas fired three shots at him, at the same time saying he would kill him. On the other hand, Thomas said that Brown threw a lamp at him before he discharged his revolver. Then he only tried to scare him.

Both men were anxious to argue the case, but the court declined to hear them. Judge Scott said he did not want to send Thomas to jail on account of his age and told Attorney Frisby that he would impose a $5 fine.

The old man will have to go to jail, your honor, said his attorney, "for he hasn't a cent in the world."

"I think he will probably be able to raise this small amount," Judge Scott remarked. "If he contributes $1 toward it myself."

Attorney Frisby, Agent Douglass of the ### Potomac Literary Club Holds Its Annual Election.

The closing meeting of the season of the Potomac Literary Club was held last evening at 800 10th street northwest, the residence of Dr. D. S. Lamb, president. Mr. H. B. Moulton and Mrs. M. M. Farrar were elected to membership.

The election of officers for the coming year resulted as follows: Dr. D. S. Lamb, president; Dr. Frank D. Collins, vice president; S. A. Terry, secretary; George C. Gwynn, treasurer; J. Orville Johnson, Silas Royce, H. V. Cotton, Mrs. Josephine A. Rich and Mrs. Ada Bugh, executive committee.

The essay was by Mr. Franklin W. Collins, subject, "The Spanish-American War; What It Has Brought and Taught Us." The address was frequently applauded. Dr. W. A. Croft did not wholly agree with the speaker and so stated.

After recess the following program was rendered: Piano solo, "Rondo" (Mendelssohn); Miss Nellie Koehling; recitation, "Tannhauser" (Wagner); Miss Lillian Koehling; contra alto solo, selection, Miss Grace L. Altshuler; recitation, "A Rapid Cure," Miss Lillian McKenzie; zither solo, selection, Mr. Harry W. Andrews. Refreshments were served.

board of children's guardians, Attorney Titus and Rev. W. J. Howard each contributed $1, and the fine was paid.

SALE FOR DELINQUENT TAXES.

Aggregate Larger This Year Than in Any Previous Year.

Mr. E. G. Davis, the collector of taxes of the District, has filed with the recorder of deeds the certificates showing the transfers of property made during the recent sale for delinquent taxes. This sale, which took place last month, was by far the largest of its kind ever held here. That of last year was up to that time the largest in the history of the District, about 1,700 pieces of real estate being sold for a total of $25,000. At the sale last month about 5,000 pieces of property were sold for taxes in arrears July 1, 1898, the amount received by the District therefor being slightly over $155,000.

The great majority of pieces of real estate sold last month was purchased by third parties—that is, by private individuals, the District buying in but comparatively few pieces. Most of the property purchased by private individuals was bought by a representative of an outside syndicate, who bought it merely as an investment. On property purchased by private parties the law allows interest at the rate of 15 per cent per annum, and if at the end of two years it is not redeemed then a deed for the property is given by the District to the purchaser at the tax sale. If the property is bought in by the District interest is charged against the owner at the rate of 10 per cent per annum.

Speaking of the matter to a Star reporter today, Collector Davis said that not only was the recent sale the largest ever known here, but more taxes in arrears have been paid this year than ever before. The people, he said, seem much more desirous of promptly paying their taxes now, all of which means, he stated, increased revenues for the District.

Temporary Injunction Granted.

Charles D. Norton & Co. filed a bill in equity today against the George R. Sheriff Coal Company and George R. Sheriff, asking that a receiver be appointed to wind up the affairs of the coal company. The bill alleges that the complainants recovered a judgment against the Sheriff company April 28, 1890, for $110,250, which they have been unable to satisfy by legal process; that the company is insolvent, and has parted with all of its visible assets. The complainants also ask for an injunction to restrain the further collection of accounts.

Upon presentation of the bill to Justice Cole this morning he granted a temporary restraining order and a rule to show cause why a receiver should not be appointed. Carena A. Brandenburg is solicitor for the complainants.

Exhibition of the Work of Local Amateur Photographers.

PICTURES OF REAL ARTISTIC MERIT

Portraits and Landscapes That Give Genuine Enjoyment.

FINE FIGURE STUDIES

The eighth annual exhibition of Washington amateur photographers opened Monday evening with a first view to the members of the club, to exhibitors and a few invited friends. The exhibition, which was opened to the public yesterday, is held in the new addition to the Walter building, 1010 F street northwest, built about a year ago for the special use of the Capital Camera Club. The rooms would seem rather too small were they not so tastefully and conveniently arranged. The walls of the reception room proper are covered with a warm tinted paper which sets off the pictures well, while the upper floor, the studio, which is finished in natural wood and fitted with a splendid north light of the most approved design, is also used for the exhibit of pictures, and some of the best work is there shown. The exhibition will come as an agreeable surprise to the visiting art lover, who will also appreciate the "no charge for admission" policy adopted.

As pictures which have received recognition anywhere else are barred, the visitor is assured of seeing new material and subjects in new and attractive lights. One of the noticeable features of the exhibit is the absence of nude studies and scantily draped figures. The art collection is a clean, healthy character, refreshing throughout.

Many Exhibits.

The invitation to exhibit extended by the committee to local amateurs was so widely responded to that the committee was obliged to scale down the number of pictures hung by each exhibitor, which, however, has not worked to the detriment of the collection as a whole by any means.

The members of the jury of awards are Prof. Thomas W. Smith of the National Museum, Miss Frances R. Johnston, who does not need to be introduced to Washingtonians, and Prof. E. C. Messer, the artist.

The pictures are hung on the walls consecutively, beginning on the north side near the stairs, the first being a head study by Mr. W. P. Herbst. He has ten pictures hung, the best of which probably is "The Jenkins" persisting in calling "Pensive Pickles." The pictures do him great credit.

A certain charm invests the landscapes submitted by Edward Daw, which attract the onlooker from the first glance. The finish and neatness of their execution, as well as the artistic character of the selections, are especially noticeable.

While all of C. Francis Jenkins' pictures show a comprehensive grasp of the subject of figure studies and portraits, and noticeably so, "The Chair Boy," his attainment in artificial lighting is strikingly original, and he has set a standard in this line far in advance of anything heretofore accomplished.

Some two years ago considerable prominence was given to night scenes made both in this country and abroad. The pictures of this character made by local photographers, however, are so many and so good that they are not a novelty. The picture of the capital by W. L. Dillman, compare favorably with the best made elsewhere. The taking of this kind of a picture is attended with much personal discomfort to the amateur, for it can be successfully done only in the rain, and the best hour is midnight.

Miss Kate S. Curry exhibits eight pictures. The work is good, but hardly as much improved during the past twelve months as shown as might reasonably be expected from the medals of last year's exhibit. She has a very truthfully presented picture in her "Ripples."

It is not difficult to see that T. A. Mullett knows how to "pose" flowers for the pictures. He has two specimen prints which are beautiful, the petals standing out from the paper very realistically.

Among the Exhibitors.

Mr. W. S. Adams' interior of the library is a most excellent piece of work with an entire absence of halation, which is uncommon, where there are so many polished surfaces to reflect bad lights.

Miss Virginia M. Prall submits ten pictures. To those who have had the coveted opportunity of seeing examples of her work in the home of the artist, her pictures, for they are in every sense of the word pictures—dignified things—instantly attract attention not only for their rather heroic size, but for the subtle charm of their composition and treatment. Her "Daughter of the Desert" is reproduced in the catalogue. Miss Prall has been a devotee of the camera but a few months, and the quality of her work is really a surprise, although much of the beauty of her pictures comes from an art training.

Wallace C. Babcock exhibits a variety of pictures, although he has submitted in the past so many specimens of landscapes that one hardly thinks of him as a successful in any other line.

Frank Roe Batchelder has in his "Sad Recollections" a little gem, a picture which tells its story with touching simplicity. The pose of his subject is good, but the little pair of shoes tells the story.

D. N. Klapp had three pictures hung, two of which are surprisingly attractive.

If a prize were offered for the largest picture, C. W. Draper would take it with

SAID RECOLLECTIONS.

By Frank Lee Batchelder.

It is another very attractive picture. With much of the same sort of material sitting at one of the down-the-river boats as she rounds the light house and leaves a long line of silvery waves in her wake.

E. E. Thompson submits some very pretty landscapes, of which his "Sunshine and Shadow" is probably the best. Even the casual observer does not fail to catch the subtle fidelity to nature in the well-selected views.

Elmer E. Curry has but two pictures on exhibition, one of which is a bright little bit on the upper canal; while the other doubtless appeals to Mr. Curry more particularly because of the associations.

Miss A. S. Brooks can without fear stake her reputation for artistic feeling on the one picture she has submitted. If this is a fair criterion of her ability it is to be regretted that she did not hang more specimens of her work.

H. L. R. Holt also submits but one picture, a "Spring Tide," a very superior flower study.

Miss Anna Fallon has five pictures, for which she need make no apology to any one. Her picture of Commissioner of Internal Revenue Wilson is not only an excellent likeness, but exhibits some striking peculiarities of lighting, the light falling from above and back of the head, and yet all of the features stand out with distinctness and texture. Her child studies are pretty, lovable pictures, and will appeal to the ladies particularly.

Portraits, pure and simple, are always more or less of a challenge to the artist, but in her No. 78 Miss Rebecca L. Webster has that peculiar subtlety which counts for so much in the making of pleasing portraits. It stands practically alone in its class and many of her friends will wait with some considerable degree of curiosity to see if she can make any advance beyond the high standard she has set for herself.

Many of those who pass up negotiable pictures to be cashed by the dealer are not acquainted with him as a photographer, and will, therefore, be agreeably surprised to see his new work. For those who have had an opportunity to see some of his "Capital at Night" pictures a diversion is had in his present exhibit, where not one of this sort appears.

Miss Helen E. Williams has done some excellent work if her "Our Soprano" stands as a fair sample. One unconsciously wishes to see more of this same unassuming kind.

P. H. Christy is one of those who adopted photography as an aid to business, although his work submitted is worthy of notice for its pictorial character. He has a hobby, cattle studies, which he handles very well, indeed.

MUSIC AND RECITATIONS.

Entertainment Given at Ninth Street Christian Church.

A well attended entertainment was given at the Ninth Street Christian Church last evening, at which reports were made of the "Living Crosses," which were used to help raise the money pledged by the C. E. Society for the new church, and by means of which the sum of about $50 was realized.

The special program was as follows: Duet, Misses Belle Carpenter and Gertrude Dana; recitation, Miss Alice Irwin; tenor solo, Mr. Thos. L. Jones; mandolin and guitar, Messrs. Will Todd and Ben Judson; recitation, Miss Nellie Brough; soprano solo, Miss Gertrude Dana; recitation, Mr. Howard Buckler; contra alto solo, Miss Belle Carpenter; violin solo, Miss Mabel Raymond.

After the program had been concluded refreshments were served in the dining room of the church.

ANACOSTIA HAPPENINGS.

Controversy Over a Sewer—Violation of Law Charged—Briefs.

A controversy has arisen over the question of installing a sewer in Jefferson street between Monroe and Fillmore streets, as is proposed by the Commissioners, and has led to the cost of the work to be paid for by assessments against certain lots. One of the objections made is that residents in another portion of the square have been inconvenienced by the running of a sewer through a rear alley, and that the manner in which the proposed sewer is to be laid will prove a hardship to the residents who will have to come in contact with it. The matter will be brought to the attention of the Commissioners.

Charles Dorsett, a plumber who lives in the southeastern section of the city, was arrested last evening by the officers of the fifth precinct for Policeman V. G. King on a charge of violating a police regulation. It was alleged that Dorsett rendered a part of Washington street, Anacostia, impassable by obstructing it with great piles of earth, which he failed to move when notified to do so. He deposited $5 as collateral for his appearance in the Police Court.

Thomas Cissell, a resident of Twining city, reported to the police yesterday afternoon that his rowboat had been stolen from Howard's Point. Later Mr. Cissell traced his boat to a place near the city, where three young boys were enjoying a row in it. They waded ashore at sight of the owner and ran away. He recovered his property. Florian Trautman has entered a complaint at the station house against the ball playing that is going on at evenings near his house.

Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Bliss are on a visit to Philadelphia.
